TWO SESSIONS TODAY

Dr. Howard K. Williams Principal
Speaker at Session
Last Evening(By Staff Correspondent)
EDDINGTON, Sept. 19—Approximately 100 persons, representing 26 Bucks County Sunday Schools, braved the storm last evening to attend the first of a two-day session of the seventy-second annual convention of the Bucks County Sabbath School Association in the Eddington Presbyterian Church.

The theme for this year's convention, the first ever to be held in the Eddington Church, and the third time a convention has ever been held in this vicinity, two having been held in past years in Bristol, is "Christ Changes Lives."

The delegates enjoyed a varied and full program from the opening at 5.30 p. m. when a Church School Workers' supper conference was held.

The featured address of the evening was delivered by Dr. Howard K. Williams, pastor of the Alpha Baptist Church in Philadelphia, who spoke on the theme, "Christ the Central Figure." Dr. Williams also spoke earlier in the evening at the supper conference.

"I am not at all concerned about the future of the Christian church, because Christ can never fail and he is, and always has been, right at the center of it," Dr. Williams declared.

"But for us to be real and true Christians we must do the following things: First, we must allow Christ to be the center of our faith; Second, he must be first in all our preaching and teaching, and last, he must be the center of all our thoughts of living and acting, and this calls for pureness and holiness in our behavior."

"Christ is by Divine right the central figure of the Christian church. He is the founder of the church, and only as we follow in His footsteps and only as we put Him first will the Church go forward," this intensely interesting speaker pointed out.

Speaking of the criticisms that are heard against the Church today, Dr. Williams pointed out that many of these are unjust because the duty of the Church is not to meddle in all sorts of affairs. If the Church carries out its primary duties then many of the other problems of the day will automatically be solved. "Men and women must first be Christian before we can hope for a true social order," Dr. Williams declared.

To further illustrate the above point the speaker pointed out that a survey of professing Christians in the city of Philadelphia revealed the startling fact that 51% of the population of that city had no professed faith.

The featured guest of the evening then spoke on Christ in the Bible. He pointed out that Christ is the central theme and figure of the Bible, as even a casual reading will indicate. He strides majestically across the pages of the New Testament. Without Him in the New Testament there would have been no occasion for its having been written.

In concluding his talk Dr. Williams said, "And Christ is also the principal figure in all the world—no other has."

Stanwyck, Taylor Co-Star
In "His Brother's Wife"

Barbara Stanwyck and Robert Taylor form the screen's newest romantic team in "His Brother's Wife," which comes to the Grand Theatre Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

The new picture, adapted to the screen by Leon Gordon and John Meehan, also features Jean Hersholt who has become tremendously popular as the result of starring roles in "The Country Doctor" and "Sins of Men."

Also in the cast are Joseph Calleia, the screen's leading "bad man," John Eldredge, Samuel S. Hinds and Phyllis Clare.

The story has been placed in two extremely interesting yet contrasting settings—the gay, happy night life of New York and the sordid and suffocating heat of a dense South American jungle.

BABY ARRIVES

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Bleier, Trenton, N. J., are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a daughter, Tuesday morning, in McKinley Hospital, Trenton, N. J. Mrs. Bleier was formerly Miss Dorothy McElroy, Buckley street.

Fire at Burlington

BURLINGTON, N. J., Sept. 19—A three-year-old colored boy died of suffocation today when the home of his parents, 508 Mitchell avenue, caught fire.

The small boy, the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Jones, colored, is said to have been asleep in the upstairs back room of the home. His mother is reported to have gone to the store. While she was out the fire started. It is not known how at this time.

Firemen were unable to go in the house at first because of the dense smoke. Upon learning a child was in the house they at once began a search. Curtis Prevost discovered the boy in the back room. He was rushed to the Emergency Hospital, City Hall, in the Mitchell Fire Truck.

It was first thought the child was alive. Troopers of Columbus Barracks started to offer artificial respiration at once. Employees of Public Service were called. Upon the arrival of Dr. Carleton Hogan he pronounced the child dead from suffocation.

CIVIL WAR IN SPAIN
TEACHES MANY THINGSShows Public How World War
May Be Created; Shows
Brutal Inhumanity

HAS DANGEROUS TINGE

By J. C. Oestreicher
(I. N. S. Foreign Editor)

NEW YORK, Sept. 19—(INS)—The month-old Spanish civil war has taught the world a number of things, not the least of which has been the incredibly brutal extent to which man's inhumanity to man can go.

But of even potentially more far-reaching importance, it has served to show the public at large how a world war may be created, how a conflagration of truly cataclysmic proportions may easily spring from a spark carelessly ignited.

For the factors involved in lending a dangerous international tinge to a revolt that on the surface seemingly should have remained simply a one-nation affair, have been speedily and mercilessly disclosed day by day, with no foreign propagandists either muzzling or distorting the full and free revelations of the American press.

The Spanish conflict, it might be said, has been the most widely press-agitated war in the history of modern civilization.

In this respect the press may well be said to have performed a service to the public that has few parallels. Certainly, no American newspaper reader can say that if a new European war broke out tomorrow he would be the least surprised.

And this was not the case in 1914. For some weeks before the assassination of the Archduke Franz Ferdinand of Austria in the little Bosnian town of Sarajevo, there had been grave rumblings in the Balkans—rumblings of a nature that today would have brought banner-headers to the front pages of every American newspaper.

But in 1914, these ominous rumblings were overlooked, often completely ignored.

On the very day prior to the Archduke's murder, there was no front-page story anywhere on the menacing situation prevailing at the moment he took his life in his hands to visit Sarajevo.

The papers were full of a French political assassination and a minor American political scandal.

The killing of the Archduke, naturally, was splashed over the front pages, but then came a curious lull. For several days afterward, the various developments now known to have

THE LONDON TIDE SWEEPS ON

(New York American, September 17, 1936)

The fallacy of the New Deal theory that FIVE BILLION DOLLARS CAN'T BE BEATEN has been proved in Michigan, as it was in Maine.

The defeat of Senator James Couzens in Michigan is the most conclusive evidence of THE COLLAPSE OF THE NEW DEAL, a pre-November test of public opinion could bring forth. IT SPELLS THE DEFEAT OF MR. ROOSEVELT IN A REGION WHERE DEFEAT WILL BE FATAL TO HIM.

The Michigan issue was clear-cut.

Mr. Couzens, a Republican Senator for 14 years, again sought the Republican Senatorial nomination, BUT ON A PRO-ROOSEVELT PLATFORM. He was opposed by Wilbur M. Brucker, a former Republican Governor AND AN OUT-SPOKEN ANTI-NEW DEALER.

The Republican vote is THE VOICE OF MICHIGAN, as the comparative totals cast in the primaries of the two major parties attest.

The ballots cast by Michigan Republicans Tuesday exceeded those of Democrats MORE THAN THREE TO TWO. This can only mean that the decision given AGAINST MR. ROOSEVELT in the Republican primary WILL BE RATIFIED IN THE GENERAL ELECTION.

The verdict returned by the people of Michigan, therefore, is: MICHIGAN WILL BE IN THE LONDON COLUMN IN NOVEMBER.

Tremendously more significant is the proof thus afforded that other Central States whose interests are identical with those of Michigan WILL VOTE THE SAME WAY.

The factors influencing the people of Michigan TO TURN AGAINST ROOSEVELT are not peculiar to Michigan. They are present in the same force in all the States having the same problems and facing the same conditions that exist in Michigan.

The two powerful voting groups in Michigan represent Agriculture and Labor. These are the groups in which New Deal strength would be centered IF IT HAD ANY.

The demonstration of New Deal WEAKNESS AMONG FARMERS AND WORKERS, unmistakably written large upon the November horizon by the Couzens defeat, PRESENTS THE ELECTION OF ALFRED M. LONDON as President.

Michigan has joined Maine in serving notice upon aspirants to public office that THE LABEL OF THE NEW DEAL IS A FATAL BRAND.

In both of these great States the personal popularity of favored sons has availed them nothing in their futile efforts to buck the tide now running against the New Deal and all its infamous works.

First it was Brann in Maine who found the New Deal to be an Old Man of the Sea astride his back.

And now Couzens in Michigan has learned that his

CARD PARTY, SEPT. 28TH

EDGELY, Sept. 19—The Edgely School Association held its first meeting of the year Thursday night at the school house, President Walter Rittler presiding.

Scripture was read by Walter D. Miller, also minutes of the last meeting. Mrs. George Garretson gave the treasurer's report and Mrs. Clara Doster the financial secretary's report.

A committee of four was appointed to serve on the card party committee for the month of September. Those serving are Mrs. Roy Moon, Mrs. Russell Flail, Mrs. Walter Rittler and Mrs. Fred Hibbs.

A tree committee was also appointed to secure some trees and plant them around the school yard to beautify the grounds and also provide shade for the children. Russell Flail, Walter Miller, Walter Rittler and Fred Hibbs are acting on this committee. The sick committee consists of Mr. Miller and Mrs. Hibbs.

The association will conduct its first card party the 28th of September at the school house. Miss Bittinger, a new member of the faculty, attended the meeting. The meetings of the association will be held the third Thursday of each month hereafter.

ARE WED

EDGELY, Sept. 19—Announcement is made of the marriage of Hadley Springer, nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Springer, and Miss Ruth Tshudy, daughter of Mrs. Sadie D. Tshudy, on Friday, September 11th, at Malvern, Pa. The bride was attended by Miss Grace Farlyn, West Chester, as maid-of-honor. The best man was Howard Springer, a cousin of the groom. Mr. and Mrs. Springer left immediately following the ceremony for New York State and Canada for their honeymoon. The young couple will make their home in Bristol in the near future.

RESUMES STUDIES

Miss Doris Clifton, Beaver street, has resumed her studies at Rider College, attending the night classes.

Tullytown Schools
Have Active Program

TULLYTOWN, Sept. 19—The program for the 1936-37 term at the public school here is rapidly striking its stride. There is a large enrollment in each of the rooms.

The Safety Squad is very active, due to the heavy traffic over the Bristol Pike. The children are being carefully guarded, and the squad is captained by Louis Esterline.

Members of the eighth grade elected officers as follows: President, Rose Lusino; secretary, Ruth Bachofer; treasurer, Mayetta Headley. The class today is putting on its first class project in conducting a bake sale.

Yesterday at the assembly period an interesting play entitled "Cave Children" was given. The children were in costume which with the weapons used were all of their own design. Those in the cast: Frances Pezza, Lester Heller, Joseph Mazzeochi, Marie Napoli, John Zuchero, Glenn Stake, John Silvi, Richard Davis, Anna Mae Stake.

Leave for Moylan, Where They Will Reside

PERSONAL NEWS ITEMS

EDDINGTON, Sept. 19—Two faithful workers and teachers in the Eddington Presbyterian Sunday School will be lost to that group when Mr. and Mrs. Harold English, who have resided with the minister of that church for two years, leave to make a new home at Moylan, Pa. As a token of appreciation of the services rendered and as a farewell token, many of their friends gathered in the Manse on Wednesday evening to bid Mr. and Mrs. English a pleasant journey.

Mr. Arthur G. Wilkinson, superintendent of the Sunday School, in behalf of the adult Bible class, presented Mr. and Mrs. English with a beautiful white table lamp. Mr. English taught this class for some time. Mrs. English also had charge of one of the young groups of the Sunday school and substituted as a teacher for other classes.

Dr. W. W. Williams, pastor of the Church of the Redeemer, Andalusia, led in prayer at the gathering, and the Rev. Arthur D. Sargis, pastor of the Eddington Presbyterian Church, with whom Mr. and Mrs. English resided, also spoke a few words of praise for these two industrious workers. Mr. Sargis also spoke briefly on the manner in which he first met Mr. and Mrs. English. Unable to take care of the large charge house, Mr. Sargis, who is unmarried, placed an advertisement in a Philadelphia paper. Of the 36 replies that he received, Mr. and Mrs. English were selected.

The reason for the departure of Mr. and Mrs. English is because of his employment. After they establish their residence at Moylan Mr. English will be able to save more than three hours per day in transportation.

Those who attended the party included: Mr. and Mrs. Harold English, the Rev. Arthur D. Sargis, Dr. and Mrs. W. W. Williams, Andalusia, Miss Reba Ellis, Mrs. L. Roth, Mrs. H. H. Jones, Miss Isabella Jones, Mr. Isaac S. H. Jones, Mrs. E. H. Austin, Mrs. David Townsend, Mr. H. Moore, Mrs. J. MacAlheavey, Mrs. George Sottung, Mrs. Beck, Miss Eleanor Davis, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Lighthouse Tottering

Beach Haven, N. J., Sept. 19—Old Barnegat Lighthouse, for years a landmark for ships, today was tottering under the fiercest beating it has had in years.

Coast Guardsmen report the lighthouse is listing badly to the Barnegat Bay side, seven miles north of here. A 200-foot strip of sand separating the tower from the water was washed away and a protective "petticoat" pulverized into bits. Barnegat City was virtually isolated.

Boat Seeks Shelter

Buzzard's Bay, Mass., Sept. 19—Battered by gale winds and heavy seas, the steamship Berkshire, carrying 131 children of the Bancroft School, to Philadelphia, after a summer vacation in Maine, lay at anchor today in the shelter of Wing's Neck, at the west entrance to Cape Cod Canal.

Fearful the center of the storm might strike at the Berkshire if it continued its journey, the captain dropped anchor after the children had a rough night.

WIND AND TIDE TERRIFIC

Some Yachts Are Grounded
On Burlington Island
But Escape Damage

Eleven boats of the Anchor Yacht Club were ripped from their moorings yesterday as a result of the hurricane-like storm that swept the Delaware River in the early morning hours. Gallant work of members of the crew saved several of the boats from any severe damage while others were guarded against the terrific wind and high waters.

Frank Bredford's "Sarah" was the first boat to feel the intensity of the wind and storm. This 24-foot cruiser was sighted by the Bristol police yesterday morning at 6 a. m. as it washed up on Burlington Island almost opposite the Bristol wharf. No damage was done.

The second boat to feel the effects of the storm was an outboard motorboat, with the motor attached, which sank in front of the Anchor Yacht Club. It is said by members that the weight of the motor and the water which poured in caused this craft to sink.

J. S. Fine's 30-foot cruiser is laying over on the island after it ripped free of its moorings. No apparent damage was done to this boat. It was only the fast work of Clarence Winters, however, that saved the Fine boat from being rammed by a boat owned by Everett Worth. Both boats were floating free when Winters caught the Worth boat.

A 26-foot speed boat owned by Robert Billings was also washed over on the island, but this boat went up the river before it grounded. All the other boats that broke loose went down stream with the force of the storm. It is said that a sudden shift in the wind probably accounted for Billings' boat going up-stream.

E. S. Dougherty's "Buddy" was the next boat to cut loose, but this was caught and brought back to the Club float and tied securely. Dougherty's boat is of the 25-foot cabin type.

Clarence Winters' 40-foot cruiser also broke its cable but was brought back before any damage was done. Winters stood by all the remainder of the day assisting the other distressed boats, and it was only because of his fine work, as well as through the efforts of William Fleming and William Rumph that no more serious damage was done to the boats.

With the morning gone most of the fury of the storm was gone, but there was still plenty of force left to rip John Hibbs' boat from its moorings. This 22-foot cabin cruiser went down

Governor Landon Still
In Lead in Digest Poll

For the third successive week, Governor Landon led President Roosevelt as the votes in the Literary Digest's nation-wide poll were being tabulated. In the report released yesterday by the magazine, Governor Landon's lead was approximately 3½ to 2.

Votes from only 13 States have thus far been reported. From these States, on the basis of the tabulation as far as it has gone, Governor Landon would receive 166 electoral votes, President Roosevelt 62 and Representative Lemke, the Union Party candidate, none.

Much of President Roosevelt's strength in the third week's report came from States in the Democratic South.

The vote from Mississippi, which has not heretofore appeared in the poll table, helped materially to increase the President's total.

Mississippi, into which more Federal funds have been poured on a per capita basis than in any other State in the Union, is claimed by the Democrats as certain to be safe for the New Deal. The Literary Digest figures bear out the Democratic claim.

In New York State, Governor Landon leads by almost 3 to 1, and in Pennsylvania by better than 2 to 1.

Among the significant figures disclosed in the third week's report are the number of voters who supported President Roosevelt in 1932, who are now in the Republican column. In the 13 States, 27,288 former Democrats registered as Republicans, as against 13,726 former Republicans who indicated an intention of voting Democratic this year.

Of equal importance to those seeking to forecast the outcome of the November election from the poll figures is the analysis of the vote being recorded for Representative Lemke.

The Lemke total to date is 10,374. Of these, 6,959 voted Democratic four years ago and 1,885 voted Republican. The highest percentage of the total vote to be gained by Representative Lemke thus far has been in Minnesota, where he has better than 9.5 per cent. At the end of the third week's tabulation Governor Landon has 153,360 and President Roosevelt 88,815.

This Strange New Deal

TAXES

The tax bill was larger than the nation's food bill, or it's rent bill, twice the clothing bill and six times the bill for power and light.

CHINA VS. JAPAN

Foreign observers in the Far East are talking, in amazed accents, of the near possibility of war between China and Japan. They admit that China would be defeated; but they add that Japan would be ruined. The Japanese, they say, would win battle after battle, just as Napoleon did in his march to Moscow; but in the end, like Napoleon, Japan would be defeated by the immensity of the task undertaken and the expenditure of her energies against impregnable masses.

The ease with which Gen. Chiang Kai-shek at the head of the Nanking government stopped the movement organized in Kwang-tung and Kwangsi to force his hand has startled the foreign watchers. They say the attempt to unite the Chinese people under a strong regime has succeeded. They point to the rapid building of new roads; to the purchase of large numbers of airplanes and the training of competent Chinese aviators; to the fact that Chiang now has a loyal, well-drilled army of 400,000 men; to the spur given Chinese patriotism by the forgotten performance of the Nineteenth Route Army at Shanghai against the Japanese in 1932; to the establishment of radio loud-speakers in the villages, round which, at certain hours, the populace gathers to hear the latest news broadcast from Nanking in all the Chinese dialects; to the fact that all Chinese have thus learned of the Japanese aggressions in the north, and would understand what a war was all about, and support it.

At the Institute of Pacific Relations in Yosemite, California, last week, Dr. Hu Shih, educator and philosopher, said the unification of China under Nanking is now 90 per cent complete, and that war with Japan is almost certain because it is the only way in which China can resist Japanese encroachments.

Such a war would necessarily find China, with a small navy, fighting on the defensive, within her own boundaries. It would be a tremendously expensive war for Japan, as she would also have to protect herself from possible Russian intervention; and her financial position today is not of the soundest. She would find it difficult to secure loans, whereas other countries whose Chinese trade she has been trying to gobble might find it convenient to give some financial aid to China.

In the case of the side-swiped dynamite truck that went into a ditch in the West, no report was good news.

Maybe the medical publicists who advise going to bed immediately with a slight cold could name two doctors who do.

Maybe we overlooked it in the avalanche of news out of Ethiopia, but still don't know who's doing the thinking now for the emancipated slaves.

Kansas Costs Cut 26 Per Cent

Under Landon policies the per capita cost of State and local governments in Kansas was cut from $71 in 1929 to $52 in 1935, a reduction of $19 per capita, or more than 26 per cent.

What happened elsewhere may be realized from a comparison with average per capita costs of all States and local governments. In 1929 the average per capita cost of State and local governments throughout the United States was $71.29, virtually the same as in Kansas. Figures for 1935 are not available, but in 1934 the nationwide average was $60.53, a decrease of 15 per cent as compared with 26 per cent in Kansas a year later. The reduction for the country as a whole was made possible chiefly by a shifting of local expenditures for relief to the Federal Government. The aggregate of costs of all the State governments showed an increase, but in Kansas the trend of State costs has been downward.

"THE BIG FOUR" by Agatha Christie

SYNOPSIS

In his London apartment, Hercule Poirot, famous detective, prepares to leave for South America to conduct a secret investigation for Abe Ryland, the soap king. Poirot regrets having to forego his sleuthing into the activities of "The Big Four," a secret criminal organization, but Hastings, his friend, promises to carry on in his absence. As the two men are discussing the case, a man stumbles out of the bedroom, mumbling Poirot's name and address. Although dazed, he reveals Li Chang Yen is the brains of the Big 4. The other three are a wealthy American, a French woman, and the "Destroyer." The stranger faints and leaving him on the bed, Poirot rushes out with Hastings to catch his train for Southampton. Enroute, it dawns on Poirot that his South American trip is a ruse to get him out of the way. He rushes home to find the stranger dead. Shortly afterwards a self-styled asylum keeper calls, claiming the man escaped from his institution. Upon learning he is dead, the keeper says, "Well, I dare say, it's best for all parties." Hastings relates what follows:

CHAPTER IV

"Was he—dangerous?"
"Omniscient, if you mean? Oh, no. 'Armed' enough. Persecution mania very acute. Full of secret societies from China that had got him shut up. They're all the same."

I shuddered.

"How long had he been shut up?"

asked Poirot.

"A matter of two years now."

"I see," said Poirot quietly. "It never occurred to anybody that he might—be sane?"

The keeper permitted himself to laugh.

"If he was sane, what would he be doing in a lunatic asylum? They all say they're sane, you know."

Poirot said no more. He took the man in to see the body. The identification came immediately.

"That's him—right enough," said the keeper callously; "funny sort of bloke, ain't he? Well, gentlemen, I had best go off now and make arrangements under the circumstances. We won't trouble you with the corpse much longer. If there's a hinkum, you will have to appear at it, I dare say. Good morning, sir."

With a rather uncouth bow he shuffled out of the room.

A few minutes later Japp arrived. The Scotland Yard Inspector was jaunty and dapper as usual.

"Here I am, Monsieur Poirot. What can I do for you? Thought you were off to the coral strands of somewhere or other today?"

"My good Japp, I want to know if you have ever seen this man before."

He led Japp into the bedroom. The inspector stared down at the figure on the bed with a puzzled face.

"Let me see now—he seems sort of familiar—and I pride myself on my memory, too. Why, bless my soul, it's Mayerling!"

"And who is—or was—Mayerling?"

"Secret Service chap—not one of our people. Went to Russia five years ago. Never heard of again. Always thought the Bolsheviks had done him in."

"It all fits in," said Poirot, when Japp had taken his leave, "except for the fact that he seems to have died a natural death."

He stood looking down on the motionless figure with a dissatisfied frown. A puff of wind set the window-curtains flying out, and he looked up sharply.

"I suppose you opened the windows when you laid him down on the bed, Hastings?"

"No, I didn't," I replied. "As far as I remember, they were shut."

Poirot lifted his head suddenly.

"Shut—and now they are open. What can that mean?"

"Somebody came in that way," I suggested.

"Possibly," agreed Poirot, but he spoke absently and without conviction. After a minute or two he said:

"That is not exactly the point I had in mind, Hastings. If only one window was open it would not intrigue me so much. It is both windows being open that strikes me as curious."

He hurried into the other room.

"The sitting-room window is do that for? Some idea of a false sent by making the crime appear to have taken place at four o'clock?"

"No, no; rearrange your ideas, mon ami. Exercise your little gray cells. You are Mayerling. You hear something, perhaps—and you know well enough that your doom is sealed. You have just time to leave a sign. Four o'clock, Hastings. Number Four, the destroyer. Ah! an idea!"

He rushed into the other room and seized the telephone. He asked for Hanwell.

"You are the Asylum, yes? I understand there has been an es-open, too. That also we left shut. Ah!"

He bent over the dead man, examining the corners of the mouth minutely. Then he looked up suddenly.

"He has been gagged, Hastings. Gagged and then poisoned."

"Good heavens!" I exclaimed, checked. "I supposed we shall find out all about it from the post-mortem."

"We shall find out nothing. He was killed by inhaling strong prussic acid. It was jammed right under his nose. Then the murderer went away again, first opening all the windows. Hydrocyanic acid is exceedingly volatile, but it has a pronounced smell of bitter almonds. With no trace of the smell to guide them, and no suspicion of foul play, death would be put down to some natural cause by the doctors. So this man was in the Secret Service, Hastings. And five years ago he disappeared in Russia."

"The last two years he's been in the Asylum," I said. "But what of the three years before that?"

Poirot shook his head, and then caught my arm.

"The clock, Hastings, look at the clock!"

I moved his gaze to the mantelpiece. The clock had stopped at four o'clock.

"Mon ami, some one has tampered with it. It had still three days to run. It is an eight-day clock, you comprehend?"

"But what should they want to cape today? What is that you say?

A little moment, if you please. Will you repeat that? Ah! Perfect!"

He hung up the receiver, and turned to me.

"You heard, Hastings? There has been no escape."

"But the man who came—the keeper?" I said.

"I wonder—very much wonder."

"You mean—?"

"Number Four—the destroyer."

I gazed at Poirot dumbfounded. A minute or two after, on recovering my voice, I said:

"We shall know him again, anywhere, that's one thing. He was a man of very pronounced personality."

"Was he, mon ami? I think not. He was burly and bluff and red-faced, with a thick moustache and a hoarse voice. He will be none of those things by this time, and for the rest, he has nondescript eyes, nondescript ears, and a perfect set of false teeth. Identification is not such an easy matter as you seem to think. Next time—"

"You think there will be a next time?" I interrupted.

Poirot's face grew very grave.

"It is a duel to the death, mon ami. You and I on the one side, the Big Four on the other. They have won the first trick; but they have failed in their plan to get me out of the way, and in the future they have to reckon with Hercule Poirot!"

The best things in LIFE

It's easy to say that "the best things in life are free." But think a moment. Aren't the things you value most the ones you've worked and planned and saved for?

This very day, perhaps, you're looking forward to making some purchase that will mark another milestone in satisfaction and achievement. It may be something comparatively costly, like a new home—a car—a vacation spent in travel. Or it may be simply a party dress—a set of breakfast china—new curtains for the living-room.

You can take real enjoyment in the anticipation of such an investment. But be sure the realization doesn't disappoint you. Before you buy, read carefully the advertisements in this newspaper. Consider real values. Weigh the merits of one product against another. Find out where and when you can take advantage of price reductions.

Then buy with confidence. You can always be surer of high quality and fair price when the article you purchase is advertised by a reputable firm.

a journey to this borough on a most stormy evening.

Conditions in Russia were brought to mind, "where religion is ridiculed, churches are abolished, and where atheism is a part of general instruction." "And other European countries are not much better, the only one that can boast of any form of Democracy being Great Britain. While we have a Constitution which promises government by and of the people, we fail in our plain duty toward our own laws." The growth of disregard for law on all sides was told of by the one who is so close to the element involved.

The great need of teaching on the part of the churches was stressed by Major Adams, who mentioned that "Atheism is being taught in many universities, and missionaries are sent out to destroy the belief in Christianity."

And today we find that our own State of Pennsylvania, one of the most law-abiding states, has 15,000 men in penal institutions." The tremendous number of arrests, with hundreds held on murder charges each year, was included in the message, the young people being told that the average age of the men held for murder is 23 years.

"We find today a growing disregard for the rights and lives of others."

In asking that the Leaguers and the churches as a whole aid in this war against crime, the speaker stated, "Prevention of crime is more to be desired than apprehension of criminals. I am always glad to speak to groups of this kind that aid in the building of fine lives."

That "No Democracy can survive unless the majority of its citizens are Christians" was a pertinent point.

"There must be a deeper reason for Democracy than purely a materialist people, no matter how patriotic they are. Obedience to laws is a mere reflection of the character of the people. We must convince the people the atheist is wrong. We must convince the other fellow there is a God. If we can't we're lost. This is the only thing that stands between this Democracy and utter chaos."

"I have no fear for the people of the United States if 75 or 80 per cent of them are Christians. If we get below 60 per cent, danger is just ahead. Beware of the materialistic minority. What are we going to do about it?"

"I want to impress upon you that we must get down to real business and put this thing over. It is not only the business of your salvation, but the salvation of all of us. I hope you can go out and make yourselves felt. Elements are at work 'tooth and nail' in the United States, which would, if successful, bring us to the same condition as Spain today."

The business meeting was presided over by Ernest Keyser, Lahaska, who also presented the speaker of the evening. Leaguers represented were: Bristol, Morrisville, Hulmeville, Lahaska, Newtown, Scottsville and Yardley.

Three of the Leaguers participated in the evening contest, with a banner being presented for the best solo. Yardley, represented by Miss Lillian Van Artsdalen, received the award. Miss Joyce Pope, Morrisville, and Miss Caroline Betz, Bristol, were the other vocalists.

Banner for percentage of attendance was received by Morrisville League; and for the largest delegation, by Yardley.

Among those participating in the evening's program were: William Lyndall, organ prelude; Miss Caroline Betz, who served as pianist; the Rev. Norman L. Davidson, prayer; the Rev. Francis C. Thomas, Yardley, benediction.

Mr. Keyser named Miss Jean Potter, Scottsville, to the office of third vice-president.

The president expressed a hope that the annual Halloween party will occur on Friday, October 23rd, the tentative place being Bensalem M. E. Church social hall. The Bristol choir will on Saturday, November 21st, serve the annual banquet for the group. William Lyndall heads the committee, he being privileged to appoint his own aids for the banquet committee.

The November rally, on the 20th instant, will take place at Morrisville M. E. Church.

Serving of refreshments concluded the evening.

ALL IN THE WEEK'S WORK

RADIOS, PAPERS, SONGS AND DANCES,
ON THE MARCH OF TIME ADVANCES!

Messrs. Merrill & Richman came a cropper

In a dreary Newfoundland marsh—

It seems the old Atlantic

To flying pals is harsh!

They start in merry, hopeful mood,

Exchanging many vows—

But o'er the briny ocean

Friendship to jealousy bows!

The political scene grows lively,

The 'Maine' idea this week

Seems to be Republican—

Thus those stern men speak.

"As Maine so the nation"

The old saying goes—

Not always, but it's safe to say,

It's the way the wind blows.

Governor Landon moves mid-westward.

The farmers wait his agricultural plan—

Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois,

Will give their vote to the steadiest man.

They don't want charity—but barns,

Full of livestock, fields of grain—

A little cash, a steady market,

Pride in their fathers' lands again.

Who wants the dole, whose forebears stood

Proud, on the prairie lands, and fought

The cold, the sun, the hostile tribes

And with their blood new empire bought.

Shall we 'dig in' the crops they saw

With proud, prophetic eye—

Shall we burn grain, and let meat rot,

While hungry town children cry?

Roosevelt and Lemke, Grampy Townsend,

Father Coughlin, et al, et al,

Tell us the wonders that they plan

Is any of it true at all?

Place for the fathers who'd gladly work?

Pensions for old mothers and dads?

Good—but better if the young had jobs,

They'd help the old, and be glad, so glad!

Land of promise, paved with gold,

Daughter of Europe's teeming life—

Lift up your head and heart and eyes

And cast off the "dole," give poverty strife.

Child of that deep-eyed immigrant woman

That man with bundle on his knee—

Who carried in his arms a son,

And dreams—good dreams for you and me!

So we laugh, and cry, and live,

We read and listen, and sometime ponder—

We work and hope and build and pray

And down the years wander!

We sigh—and then the radio

Pipes up with something 'neat'

And lo, we laugh and find the cares

Have left still dancing feet!

A glad New Year to many friends

Who in our town dwell—

Rosh Hoshannah—lovely word!—

We pause to wish them well!

YARDLEY ELEVEN HAS BEEN HARD HIT

YARDLEY, Sept. 19—Heavy losses due to graduation and withdrawal from school have dealt a heavy blow to Yardley high school's football prospects this season. Four regulars on last year's squad have been graduated, and four others have not yet returned to the school, although one of them is expected before the football season is under way.

Seventeen players are now out for the team, but only five of them saw much action last year. In the line, William Neely, who last year alternated at center and the backfield; Joseph Groome, all-county guard; Robert Neill, tackle, and Thomas Neely will be available this year, together with Donald Bennett and Stanley Bennett, who saw some action at end last season.

Of the backfield men, only Paul Rothermel, who has had three years experience at the halfback and quarterback positions, remains, although William Neely, also with three years' experience, chiefly at center, may be used in the backfield.

Other members of the team, who have had little or no experience, include: Anthony Gentile, Loring Nolan, John Fitzgerald, Maurice Whitlock, Hugh Cannon, Robert DeSaut, Joseph McNulty, Harold Hunt and Eugene Daugherty.

Yardley will open the season on Friday, October 2nd, when they will meet the Falls Township high school. Games with Bensalem, Langhorne, and Solebury Preparatory School, have already been scheduled, while dates with games in Newtown and New Hope are still pending.

Lack of weight will be a serious handicap with this year's team, aside from the lack of experienced players. The team will also suffer from the loss of John Tomlinson, who at fullback last year was a consistent gainer. The other players lost by graduation were Spencer Parks, Earl Worthington, Lamar DeSaut, while others missing in this year's line-up are Henry Johnson, Henry Powell, George Hackett, Jr., Marshall Duerr.

BOWLING RESULTS

In the Bristol League, A. & P. Stores won three of the four points from J. S. Fine, Ralph Cahall of A. & P. having a total of 565 was high, and Blake 547 for Fine's.

In the American League, the Elks continued to win by taking all four points from J. A. C. Joe Wilkinson of the Elks was high with a total of 545. Kendig had 537 for J. A. C.

In the National League, Spencer Furniture Company won three of the four from Schmidt's Florists. Buss of Spencer's was high with 485.

Yale Coach and Captain

Raymond "Ducky" Pond, Eli head coach, and Larry Kelley, captain and star end of the Bulldogs, are shown in a serious confab during the first real work-out of the Yale team at New Haven, Conn. The big blue eleven looks to a successful season with a squad of excellent material.

FORMER FOOTBALL STAR TO FIGHT AT CROYDON

"Jim" Robinson, former LaSalle College football star, has been signed to fight at the Croydon Arena next Wednesday night, according to an announcement by Matchmaker Mickey Giordano. Robinson's opponent will be Gene Murray, Arena, who has been blasting his foes all over the ring since his entry in the amateur ranks. Robinson is a brother of "Tommy" Robinson, who is also known in the amateur circles. "Jim" has fought the best in the heavyweight division of the amateur ring warfare and has also fought "Izzy" Richter, the Penn State star. Murray has been seen by the local fans when he fought Joe Schaeckler in the St. Ann's arena.

Giordano has also succeeded in getting the return bout between Jimmy Donnelly, Daggert, and Charles Lang, Holland. Lang and Donnelly were in the opener at the Croydon Palace of Swat, and what a battle it was. The boys stood there toe to toe for the entire three rounds. First one would get wobbly and then the other. Both boys were hardly able to stand up at the end of the going ending the fight. The return match is promised to be just as slam-bang as the first.

Two localities are almost certain to be on the card. Chet Castor is being groomed for a bout with Tony Aiello, Wilmington, and "Hokey" Leighton, Reacine Squad, will be signed to meet Walter Rhoades, fast youth from the Kensington A. C. Castor fights under the colors of the Daggert A. C., while Aiello represents the Defiance A. C. These bouts are expected to be clinched tonight.

Giordano is anticipating a return to the ring by Tommy Graig, 1935 126-pound Golden Glove champion. Craig may be matched with Benny Lamonia, Mason, present contender of the 126-pound diadem. More of this bout will be learned later in the week. The others who are expected to be on the card are: Jack Carter, Joe Sankey, Johnny Aiello, Matty Hines, Joe Cook, Joe Sheckler, and Willie Crawford.

Tickets are now on sale and can be procured by calling the Bristol Recreation Center, 9939, or Seibold's at Croydon, 2939.

Plant Catfish and Also Sunfish in This Section

Bristol Fish and Game Association has secured from the Board of Fish Commissioners of Pennsylvania, 15 cans of catfish, and five cans of blue-gilled sun-fish, which have been planted at Maple Beach; also 15 cans of catfish and five cans of blue-gilled sun-fish planted in Silver Lake. The cat-fish are large size, eight to ten inches.

The association will stock both Maple Beach and Silver Lake with yellow perch on Monday, these being sent from the Pleasant Mount Hatchery, Wayne County.

BILL FAMED LINKSMEN FOR YARDLEY TOURNEY

YARDLEY, Sept. 19—Three skilled golfers, Lawson Little, Horton Smith and one-armed Jimmy Nichols, will appear in an 18-hole exhibition on the Yardley Country Club links, October 4, according to an announcement by Al McDonald, Yardley Club tutor.

If arrangements are carried through, the internationally known club swingers will play in a foursome, with MacDonald completing the quartet.

Appearance of Little, last year's winner of the United States and British amateur crowns, and the phenomenal Smith will be their first in the Trenton region. Nichols, who is now making his headquarters at the Naval Operating Base, Norfolk, Va., played a sensational round at the Trenton Country Club two weeks ago and the one-armed linksman awed the gallery with his sparkling 72. Little, who captured every major honor in the amateur world before turning to the more lucrative side of the game, is bound to catch more than his share of attention. His nomination of the simon-pures was so recognized that before turning pro last year there wasn't a single rival that was credited with an even chance against him.

Little failed to gain much notoriety for his feats in the professional world until last week in the Canadian Open, when he ripped par to shreds to easily outstrip an outstanding field and collect $1,000 in prize money and the title. Smith, known the world over as the "Joplin Ghost," is one of the finest homebred salaried shotmakers that ever whacked a ball out of a trap. The lanky, painstaking ace from the Middle West bounced into the professional field without any fanfare, but after one trip along the Winter Gold Trail he convinced one and all that he possessed all of the abilities to be ranked with our best performers.

Handicapped by the loss of an arm, which, he thought, would end his career as a golf professional, Nichols labored conscientiously until he completely mastered the game by playing with his left hand only. As evidence of this prowess, one only needs to remember his deeds at the Oakland course when he outdrove his associates and also outplayed them in other phases of the games.

BUCKS COUNTY BECOMING VERY CHESS CONSCIOUS

The newly organized Bucks County Chess Association is making things hum in a chess way throughout the county. In the past week, it has organized, promoted and secured more chess activities for Bucks county than ever before dreamed of—by even the most enthusiastic of fair Caisson's devotees.

As an indication of the interest aroused it is necessary to only mention some of the names of the organization directors—the men who are pushing, promoting and furthering the campaign throughout the county. Associated with this movement are J. Harry Hoffman, county superintendent of public schools, Isaac VanArtsdalen and Webster S. Achey, Doylestown attorneys; Dr. Ralph Fox, Morrisville; Colonel George VonOrden, president of the Home Association, V. F. W., Doylestown, and George Ghebles, Stoopville. William A. Ruth, Doylestown, is particularly active.

Unquestionably, the most important event secured for the county, by the association, is the Central Pennsylvania Championship Tourney, Doylestown will be the scene of the 1937 Tournament, the 11th consecutive annual event for the chess championship of central Pennsylvania.

More immediate and none-the-less interesting, are two events scheduled for Doylestown this month. Mr. Ruth gave a talk recently on chess as a recreational activity at the Doylestown Chess Club meeting. Mr. Ruth is particularly well fitted to speak on this subject, being not only a player of national reputation, but having made a comprehensive study of the Milwaukee plan of municipal chess promotion.

September 25, the scene of activity will shift to the home of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, when Mr. Ruth will meet all comers in a giant simultaneous exhibition. Plans and projects of the Bucks County Chess Association will be discussed at this meeting. The public is welcome and invited to attend both of these events.

Supporting their chess promotion in a practical way, the association has arranged an attractive educational display in the window of Bean & Habensack's office, E. Court street, Doylestown. This will be on view during the entire week of September 21st.

Another program being undertaken by the new association is the endowment of the public libraries in the county with books on chess. Mr. Ruth reports that over a dozen volumes have been contributed for this purpose.

Bucks county is really becoming chess conscious. Anyone interested in the movement should communicate with William A. Ruth, 166 N. Clinton street, Doylestown.

BOWLING RESULTS

In the Bristol League, Moffo's Shoes had an easy time with Recreation, winning all four points. Boyd had a total of 586 and also a high single of 247.

In the American League, Bristol Diner won three of the four points from Cousins. Johnny Korkel, of the Diners, had a fine total of 542 to be high man.

In the National League, Tullytown won all four points from Croydon; Carlen, of Tullytown, being the high man with a total of 537.

Civil War in Spain Teaches Many Things

been of prime importance were buried "inside," as the newspaper term goes, and there is hardly a trace to be found of any publication speculating upon the probable outcome.

This strange disinterestedness lasted until the day of Germany's now famous ultimatum to Serbia. The importance of this no one could overlook, and the world came suddenly to realize it was face to face with war.

Compare with this the handling of the Spanish civil war.

On July 11, Jose Calvon Sotelo, Spanish monarchist leader, disappeared from his home in Madrid.

On that very day, the correspondents of International News Service spoke of the menacing possibilities if it was found Sotelo had met foul play at the hands of political enemies.

On July 13, his bullet-riddled body was discovered and his murderers found to be Marxist enemies. The American public was promptly informed that revolution, with far-reaching potentialities, was virtually certain.

On July 18, the revolution broke out. Almost simultaneously, and before there had been even an official shiver of apprehension in the chancelleries of Europe, came word that this revolution was more than a revolution, that it was a civil war with ramifications of a nature capable of plunging Europe into general conflict.

More to the point, the correspondents pointed out it was a showdown in Spain between Fascists and Communists and that France and Russia, on the Marxist side of the picture, and Germany and Italy, on the Fascist side, could hardly be expected to stand idly by with the whole future of the continent at stake.

This might have seemed, of course, to be pure speculation. But within a few days popular demonstrations in France gave overwhelming proof that the Leftist leaders of that republic would do all they could, within the bounds of international undertakings, to prevent a Fascist victory in Spain.

Soviet Russia began collecting funds from its proletarians to support the Marxists of Spain. Italian airplanes and German guns and ammunition began to reach the Fascist rebels in Spain and in Morocco.

Each of these dramatic steps in the creation of a situation fraught with all the "makings" of a general European conflict was duly reported and duly presented to the people of America in black type and glaring headlines. Each frantically-summoned diplomatic conference was immediately stressed and even the most blood-curdling stories of war atrocities and sanguinary conflicts could not displace from the first page the daily chronicle of the larger issue at stake—the possibilities of a new European war.

There is today, of course, a rather different public state of mind than there was in 1914.

Then, the people of the United States had no conception whatever of the unspeakable horrors of modern war. They had not the slightest notion of how easy, comparatively, it might be to start a general conflagration on a continent torn since time immemorial by national hatreds and ruled by vaulting political and imperialistic ambitions.

Today, they know. They learned a lesson from 1914 to 1918 and another one since the middle of July of this year. They have been shown how a Europe, apparently on the verge of effecting a lasting peace for the first time in the continent's history, may be detoured onto the road to war by a single shot fired in the heart of political rivalry.

able to observe in six weeks of the war in the north of Spain. American especially may be interested in one observation in the little town of Moquer. All this territory is Christopher Columbus country.

Here just up the river from Huelva Columbus started for America, and they have next to a colossal stone monument of the great man a life-size model of his tiny "Santa Maria," anchored by the ferry. They are not so interested in Columbus these days as in the fact that the port of Huelva, one of the three controlled by the whites in the south, is an important port of entry for supplies from abroad.

Nevertheless Columbus has indirectly played a part in the present Spanish civil war. Students of history may remember that the admiral of Columbus' little fleet was Don Luis Hernandez Pinzon y Alvarez. Well, I visited the house of Admiral Pinzon today, in the village of Moguer. Up until a little while ago it was still inhabited by the old admiral's direct descendant, the Colonel of Cavalry, Don Luis Pinzon who because of his ancestry and position was quite the most distinguished citizen of the town.

The house was a shrine of Columbus' admirers and on its walls was a bronze plaque put up by the Columbus so profoundly influenced the course of the world as has Christ. Every recorded event in the history of mankind is linked up inseparably with the Lord.

Following the supper conference and a song service participated in by the entire group, a devotional period was observed under the direction of the pastor of the Eddington Presbyterian Church, the Rev. Arthur D. Sargis.

The Rev. Sargis in turn introduced the Rev. Charles Yrigoyen of the Croydon M. E. Church who delivered a short message to the assembly.

Following this message words of welcome were extended to the group by Arthur G. Wilkinson, superintendent of the Eddington Presbyterian Sunday School. Raymond Hedrick, president of the Bucks county Association responded for the delegates assembled and thanked the guest church for the fine arrangements that have been made for the two-day convention.

A special musical number was rendered by a group from the local church, including Mrs. Simons, Mrs. White, Mrs. Wilkinson, Miss Isabella Jones, with Mrs. Kirk assisting at the organ.

A special vote of thanks and appreciation was given the ladies of the local church for the splendid manner in which they prepared and served the delegates at the supper conference.

Later in the program announcement of the appointment of members to two committees was made by the president, Mr. Hedrick. A resolutions committee was appointed consisting of Dr. J. J. Hayman, Ralston Hedrick, and Elmer Slatter. An auditing committee was also named: Harvey G. Cren, H. Eugene Richards, and Leroy Seiber.

Important features of today's afternoon and evening session include the election and installation of officers as well as a number of featured addresses.

11 Boats Ripped From Moorings; Few Damaged

the river and was brought back by Winters before any damage was caused.

"Bud" Bruner was inside his large schooner peeling potatoes for an evening meal and was unaware that his boat had cut loose, until it was too late to prevent it from washing up on the Island almost across from the Anchor Yacht Club. This boat is lodged on the island high and dry and it is believed that it will be several days before it can be floated.

William Flemings' boat broke anchor but he was aboard at the time and remained aboard all night. By using with the storm he managed to save his boat and keep it from running aground.

The Rumpf boat broke anchor, but again the owner was aboard and saved it from running aground. Mr. Rumpf also remained on his craft all last night.

With the fury of the storm now abated boat owners at the Club are now looking for their moorings and aiding in bringing boats back. No damage was done to the float at the club. And many boats anchored just down stream from the float were still securely moored this morning. The turn in the River above the club cut the force of the wind and they remained safe. It was the boats up-stream and those anchored on the Island side of the River that were torn loose in the storm.
